THE First Session of the Seventh Congress, conformably to the constitution of government of the United States, commenced this day; and the Senate assembled at the City of Washington.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1801.

PRESENT:

From the State of Rhode Island,	the Honorable	Theodore Foster.
Vermont,	the Honorable	Nathaniel Chipman.
Delaware,	the Honorable	{ William Hill Wells, and { Samuel White.
Maryland,	the Honorable	John E. Howard.
Virginia,	the Honorable	{ Stephens Thompson Mason, and { Wilson Cary Nicholas.
Georgia,	the Honorable	Abraham Baldwin.
Tennessee,	the Honorable	{ Joseph Anderson, and { William Cocke.

The Honorable Stephen R. Bradley, appointed a Senator by the state of Vermont, for the remainder of the term for which their late Senator, Elijah Paine, was appointed; the Honorable John Breckinridge, appointed a Senator by the state of Kentucky; the Honorable Christopher Ellery, appointed a Senator by the state of Rhode Island, for the remainder of the term for which their late Senator, Ray Greene, was appointed; the Honorable James Jackson, appointed a Senator by the state of Georgia; the Honorable George Logan, appointed a Senator by the Executive of the state of Pennsylvania, in the place of their late Senator, Peter Muhlenberg, resigned; the Honorable Simeon Olcott, appointed a Senator by the state of New Hampshire, for the remainder of the term for which their late Senator, Samuel Livermore, was appointed; the Honorable Uriah Tracy, appointed a Senator by the state of Connecticut; and the Honorable Robert Wright, appointed a Senator by the state of Maryland, severally produced their credentials, and took their seats in the Senate.

The Vice President being absent, the Senate proceeded to the election of a President pro tempore, as the constitution provides; and the Honorable Abraham Baldwin was chosen.

The President administered the oath, as the law prescribes, to Mr. Bradley, Mr. Breckinridge, Mr. Ellery, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Olcott, Mr. Tracy, and Mr. Wright, and the affirmation to Mr. Logan.

On motion,

Ordered, That the Secretary wait on the President of the United States and acquaint him that a quorum of the Senate is assembled, and that, in the absence of the Vice President, they have elected the Honorable Abraham Baldwin President of the Senate pro tempore.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and ready to proceed to business, and that, in the absence of the Vice President, they have elected the Honorable Abraham Baldwin President of the Senate pro tempore.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: A quorum of the House of Representatives is assembled, and have elected the Honorable Nathaniel Macon their speaker, and are ready to proceed to business. And he withdrew.

On motion,

Ordered, That Messrs. Anderson and Jackson be a committee on the part of the Senate, together with such committee as the House of Representatives may appoint on their part, to wait on the President of the United States and notify him that a quorum of the two Houses is assembled, and ready to receive any communications that he may be pleased to make to them.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives agree to the resolution of the Senate for the appointment of a joint committee to wait on the President of the United States, and have appointed a committee on their part. And he withdrew.

On motion,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to join such gentlemen as shall be appointed by the House of Representatives, to take into consideration a statement made this day by the Secretary of the Senate, respecting books and maps purchased in consequence of an act of Congress, passed 24th April, 1800, and to make report of their opinion respecting the future arrangement of said books and maps; and that Messrs. Tracy and Nicholas be the committee on the part of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives in this resolution.

Mr. Anderson reported, from the joint committee, that they had waited on the President of the United States and acquainted him that a quorum of the two houses is assembled, and that the President of the United States informed the committee that he would make a communication to them by message to-morrow.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1801.

The Honorable Jonathan Dayton and the Honorable Aaron Ogden, from the state of New Jersey, and the Honorable Jesse Franklin, from the state of North Carolina, severally attended.

On motion,

Resolved, That two chaplains, of different denominations, be appointed to Congress for the present session, one by each house, who shall interchange weekly.

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives in this resolution.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives concur in the resolution of the Senate for the appointment of a joint committee respecting the books and maps purchased in pursuance of an act of Congress, of 24th of April, 1800, and have appointed a committee on their part. They agree to the resolution of the Senate for the appointment of two chaplains during the present session. And he withdrew.

On motion,

Resolved, That each Senator be supplied, during the present session, with three such newspapers, printed in any of the states, as he may choose, provided that the same be furnished at the rate usual for the annual charge of such papers.

The following letter and message were received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

December 8, 1801.

SIR: The circumstances under which we find ourselves at this place rendering inconvenient the mode heretofore practised, of making by personal address the first communications between the legislative and executive branches, I have adopted that by message, as used on all subsequent occasions through the session. In doing this I have had principal regard to the convenience of the legislature, to the economy of their time, to their relief from the embarrassment of immediate answers, on subjects not yet fully before them, and to the benefits thence resulting to the public affairs.

Trusting that a procedure founded in these motives will meet their approbation, I beg leave, through you, sir, to communicate the inclosed message, with the documents accompanying it, to the Honorable the Senate, and pray you to accept, for yourself and them, the homage of my high respect and consideration.

TH. JEFFERSON.

The Hon. the PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

Fellow-citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives:

It is a circumstance of sincere gratification to me that, on meeting the great council of our nation, I am able to announce to them, on grounds of reasonable certainty, that the wars and troubles which have for so many years afflicted our sister nations, have at length come to an end; and that the communications of peace and commerce are once more opening among them. Whilst we devoutly return thanks to the beneficent Being who has been pleased to breathe into them the spirit of conciliation and forgiveness, we are bound, with peculiar gratitude, to be thankful to him that our own peace has been preserved through so perilous a season, and ourselves permitted quietly to cultivate the earth, and to practise and improve those arts which tend to increase our comforts. The assurances, indeed, of friendly disposition, received from all the powers with whom we have principal relations, had inspired a confidence that our peace with them would not have been disturbed. But a cessation of irregularities which had affected the commerce of neutral nations, and of the irritations and injuries produced by them, cannot but add to this confidence, and strengthens, at the same time, the hope that wrongs committed on unoffending friends, under a pressure of circumstances, will now be reviewed with candor, and will be considered as founding just claims of retribution for the past, and new assurance for the future.

Among our Indian neighbors, also, a spirit of peace and friendship generally prevails; and I am happy to inform you that the continued efforts to introduce among them the implements and the practice of husbandry, and of the household arts, have not been without success; that they are becoming more and more sensible of the superiority of this dependance for clothing and subsistence, over the precarious resources of hunting and fishing: and already we are able to announce that, instead of that constant diminution of their numbers, produced by their wars and their wants, some of them begin to experience an increase of population.

To this state of general peace with which we have been blessed, one only exception exists. Tripoli, the least considerable of the Barbary states, had come forward with demands unfounded either in right or in compact, and had permitted itself to denounce war, on our failure to comply before a given day. The style of the demand admitted but one answer. I sent a small squadron of frigates into the Mediterranean, with assurances to that power of our sincere desire to remain in peace; but with orders to protect our commerce against the threatened attack. The measure was seasonable and salutary. The Bey had already declared war. His cruisers were out. Two had arrived at Gibraltar. Our commerce in the Mediterranean was blockaded, and that of the Atlantic in peril. The arrival of our squadron dispelled the danger. One of the Tripolitan cruizers, having fallen in with and engaged the small schooner Enterprize, commanded by Lieutenant Sterret, which had gone as a tender to our larger vessels, was captured, after a heavy slaughter of her men, without the loss of a single one on our part. The bravery exhibited by our citizens on that element will, I trust, be a testimony to the world that it is not the want of that virtue which makes us seek their peace, but a conscientious desire to direct the energies of our nation to the multiplication of the human race, and not to its destruction. Unauthorized by the constitution, without the sanction of Congress, to go beyond the line of defence, the vessel, being disabled from committing further hostilities, was liberated with its crew. The legislature will doubtless consider whether, by authorizing measures of offence also, they will place our force on an equal footing with that of its adversaries. I communicate all material information on this subject, that, in the exercise of this important function confided by the constitution to the legislature exclusively, their judgment may form itself on a knowledge and consideration of every circumstance of weight.

I wish I could say that our situation with all the other Barbary states was entirely satisfactory. Discovering that some delays had taken place in the performance of certain articles stipulated by us, I thought it my duty, by immediate measures for fulfilling them, to vindicate to ourselves the right of considering the effect of departure from stipulation on their side. From the papers which will be laid before you, you will be enabled to judge whether our treaties are regarded by them as fixing at all the measure of their demands, or, as guarding from the exercise of force our vessels within their power; and to consider how far it will be safe and expedient to leave our affairs with them in their present posture.

I lay before you the result of the census lately taken of our inhabitants, to a conformity with which we are now to reduce the ensuing ratio of representation and taxation. You will perceive that the increase of numbers, during the last ten years, proceeding in geometrical ratio, promises a duplication in little more than twenty-two years. We contemplate this rapid growth, and the prospect it holds up to us, not with a view to the injuries it may enable us to do to others in some future day, but to the settlement of the extensive country still remaining vacant within our limits, to the multiplication of men susceptible of happiness, educated in the love of order, habituated to self government, and valuing its blessings above all price.

Other circumstances, combined with the increase of numbers, have produced an augmentation of revenue arising from consumption, in a ratio far beyond that of population alone; and, though the changes in foreign relations now taking place so desirably for the whole world, may for a season affect this branch of revenue, yet, weighing all probabilities of expense, as well as of income, there is reasonable ground of confidence that we may now safely dispense with all the internal taxes—comprehending excise, stamps, auctions, licenses, carriages, and refined sugars; to which the postage on newspapers may be added to facilitate the progress of information; and that the remaining sources of revenue will be sufficient to provide for the support of government, to pay the interest of the public debts, and to discharge the principals within shorter periods than the laws or the general expectation had contemplated. War, indeed, and untoward events, may change this prospect of things, and call for expenses which the imposts could not meet. But sound principles will not justify our taxing the industry of our fellow-citizens to accumulate treasure for wars to happen we know not when, and which might not, perhaps, happen, but from the temptations offered by that treasure.

These views, however, of reducing our burthens, are formed on the expectation that a sensible, and at the same time a salutary, reduction may take place in our habitual expenditures. For this purpose those of the civil government, the army, and navy, will need revisal. When we consider that this government is charged with the external and mutual relations only of these states; that the states themselves have principal care of our persons, our property, and our reputation, constituting the great field of human concerns, we may well doubt whether our organization is not too complicated, too expensive; whether offices and officers have not been multiplied unnecessarily, and sometimes injuriously to the service they were meant to promote. I will cause to be laid before you an essay towards a statement of those who, under public employment of various kinds, draw money from the Treasury, or from our citizens. Time has not permitted a perfect enumeration, the ramifications of office being too multiplied and remote to be completely traced in a first trial. Among those who are dependant on executive discretion, I have begun the reduction of what was deemed unnecessary. The expenses of diplomatic agency have been considerably diminished. The inspectors of internal revenue, who were found to obstruct the accountability of the institution, have been discontinued. Several agencies, created by Executive authority, on salaries fixed by that also, have been suppressed, and should suggest the expediency of regulating that power by law, so as to subject its exercises to legislative inspection and sanction. Other reformatations of the same kind will be pursued with that caution which is requisite, in removing useless things, not to injure what is retained. But the great mass of public offices is established by law, and therefore by law alone can be abolished. Should the legislature think it expedient to pass this roll in review, and try all its parts by the test of public utility, they may be assured of every aid and light which Executive information can yield. Considering the general tendency to multiply offices and dependencies, and to increase expense to the ultimate term of burthen which the citizen can bear, it behoves us to avail ourselves of every occasion which presents itself for taking off the surcharge; that it never may be seen here that, after leaving to labor the smallest portion of its earnings on which it can subsist, government shall itself consume the whole residue of what it was instituted to guard.

In our care too of the public contributions entrusted to our direction, it would be prudent to multiply barriers against their dissipation, by appropriating specific sums to every specific purpose susceptible of definition; by disallowing all applications of money varying from the appropriation in object, or transcending it in amount; by reducing the undefined field of contingencies, and thereby circumscribing discretionary powers over money; and by bringing back to a single department all accountabilities for money, where the examinations may be prompt, efficacious, and uniform.

An account of the receipts and expenditures of the last year, as prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury, will, as usual, be laid before you. The success which has attended the late sales of the public lands shews that, with attention, they may be made an important source of receipt. Among the payments those made in discharge of the principal and interest of the national debt, will shew that the public faith has been exactly maintained. To these will be added an estimate of appropriations necessary for the ensuing year. This last will, of course, be affected by such modifications of the system of expense as you shall think proper to adopt.

A statement has been formed by the Secretary of War, on mature consideration, of all the posts and stations where garrisons will be expedient, and of the number of men requisite for each garrison. The whole amount is considerably short of the present military establishment. For the surplus no particular use can be pointed out. For defence against invasion their number is as nothing; nor is it conceived needful or safe that a standing army should be kept up in time of peace, for that purpose. Uncertain as we must ever be of the particular point in our circumference where an enemy may chuse to invade us, the only force which can be ready at every point, and competent to oppose them, is the body of neighboring citizens, as formed into a militia. On these, collected from the parts most convenient, in numbers proportioned to the invading force, it is best to rely, not only to meet the first attack, but, if it threatens to be permanent, to maintain the defence until regulars may be engaged to relieve them. These considerations render it important that we should, at every session, continue to amend the defects which from time to time shew themselves in the laws for regulating the militia, until they are sufficiently perfect: nor should we now, or at any time, separate, until we can say we have done every thing for the militia which we could do were an enemy at our door.

The provision of military stores on hand will be laid before you, that you may judge of the additions still requisite.

With respect to the extent to which our naval preparations should be carried, some difference of opinion may be expected to appear: but just attention to the circumstances of every part of the union will doubtless reconcile all. A small force will probably continue to be wanted for actual service in the Mediterranean. Whatever annual sum beyond that you may think proper to appropriate to naval preparations, would perhaps be better employed in providing those articles which may be kept without waste or consumption, and be in readiness when any exigence calls them into use. Progress has been made, as will appear by papers now communicated, in providing materials for seventy-four gun ships as directed by law.

How far the authority given by the legislature for procuring and establishing sites for naval purposes, has been perfectly understood and pursued in the execution, admits of some doubt. A statement of the expenses already incurred on that subject is now laid before you. I have, in certain cases, suspended or slackened these expenditures, that the legislature might determine whether so many yards are necessary as have been contemplated. The works at this place are among those permitted to go on: and five of the seven frigates directed to be laid up, have been brought and laid up here, where, besides the safety of their position, they are under the eye of the executive administration, as well as of its agents; and where yourselves also will be guided by your own view in the legislative provisions respecting them, which may, from time to time, be necessary. They are preserved in such condition, as well the vessels as whatever belongs to them, as to be at all times ready for sea on a short warning. Two others are yet to be laid up so soon as they shall have received the repairs requisite to put them also into sound condition. As a superintending officer will be necessary at each yard, his duties and emoluments, hitherto fixed by the Executive, will be a more proper subject for legislation. A communication will also be made of our progress in the execution of the law respecting the vessels directed to be sold.

The fortifications of our harbors, more or less advanced, present considerations of great difficulty. While some of them are on a scale sufficiently proportioned to the advantages of their position, to the efficacy of their protection, and the importance of the points within it, others are so extensive, will cost so much in their first erection, so much in their maintenance, and require such a force to garrison them, as to make it questionable what is best now to be done. A statement of those commenced or projected; of the expenses already incurred; and estimates of their future cost, as far as can be foreseen, shall be laid before you, that you may be enabled to judge whether any alteration is necessary in the laws respecting this subject.

Agriculture, manufactures, commerce, and navigation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are then most thriving when left most free to individual enterprize. Protection from casual embarrassments, however, may sometimes be seasonably interposed.

If, in the course of your observations or inquiries, they should appear to need any aid within the limits of our constitutional powers, your sense of their importance is a sufficient assurance they will occupy your attention. We cannot, indeed, but all feel an anxious solicitude for the difficulties under which our carrying trade will soon be placed. How far it can be relieved, otherwise than by time, is a subject of important consideration.

The judiciary system of the United States, and especially that portion of it recently erected, will, of course, present itself to the contemplation of Congress; and that they may be able to judge of the proportion which the institution bears to the business it has to perform, I have caused to be procured from the several states, and now lay before Congress, an exact statement of all the causes decided since the first establishment of the courts, and of those which were depending when additional courts and judges were brought in to their aid.

And while on the judiciary organization, it will be worthy your consideration whether the protection of the inestimable institution of juries has been extended to all the cases involving the security of our persons and property. Their impartial selection also being essential to their value, we ought further to consider whether that is sufficiently secured in those states where they are named by a marshal depending on executive will, or designated by the court, or by officers dependent on them.

I cannot omit recommending a revisal of the laws on the subject of naturalization. Considering the ordinary chances of human life, a denial of citizenship under a residence of fourteen years, is a denial to a great proportion of those who ask it; and controls a policy pursued, from their first settlement, by many of these states, and still believed of consequence to their prosperity. And shall we refuse to the unhappy fugitives from distress that hospitality which the savages of the wilderness extended to our fathers arriving in this land? Shall oppressed humanity find no asylum on this globe? The constitution, indeed, has wisely provided that, for admission to certain offices of important trust, a residence shall be required sufficient to develop character and design. But might not the general character and capabilities of a citizen be safely communicated to every one manifesting a bona fide purpose of embarking his life and fortunes permanently with us? with restrictions, perhaps, to guard against the fraudulent usurpation of our flag; an abuse which brings so much embarrassment and loss on the genuine citizen, and so much danger to the nation of being involved in war, that no endeavor should be spared to detect and suppress it.

These, fellow-citizens, are the matters respecting the state of the nation which I have thought of importance to be submitted to your consideration at this time. Some others of less moment, or not yet ready for communication, will be the subject of separate messages. I am happy in this opportunity of committing the arduous affairs of our government to the collected wisdom of the union. Nothing shall be wanting on my part to inform, as far as in my power, the legislative judgment, nor to carry that judgment into faithful execution. The prudence and temperance of your discussions will promote, within your own walls, that conciliation which so much befriends rational conclusion; and by its example will encourage among our constituents that progress of opinion which is tending to unite them in object and in will. That all should be satisfied with any one order of things, is not to be expected; but I indulge the pleasing persuasion that the great body of our citizens will cordially concur in honest and disinterested efforts, which have for their object to preserve the general and state governments in their constitutional form and equilibrium; to maintain peace abroad, and order and obedience to the laws at home; to establish principles and practices of administration favorable to the security of liberty and property, and to reduce expenses to what is necessary for the useful purposes of government.

TH. JEFFERSON.

December 8, 1801.

The letter and message were read.

On motion,

Ordered, That they be printed for the use of the Senate.

The papers referred to in the message were in part read.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1801.

The reading of the papers referred to in the message of the President of the United States of the 8th instant, was resumed.

On motion,

Ordered, That five hundred copies of the message of the President of the United States of the 8th December, together with the papers therein referred to, be printed for the use of the Senate.

The Senate proceeded to the appointment of a Chaplain to Congress on their part, and the Rev. Mr. Gant was elected.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives therewith.
The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1801.

On motion,

Resolved, That James Mathers, Sergeant-at-Arms and Doorkeeper to the Senate, be, and he is hereby, authorized to employ one additional assistant, and two horses, for the purpose of performing such services as are usually required of the doorkeeper to the Senate; and that the sum of twenty-eight dollars be allowed him weekly for the purpose during the session, and for twenty days after.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have appointed a joint committee on their part for enrolled bills, and desire the appointment of such committee on the part of the Senate. And he withdrew.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Senate do concur in the appointment of a joint committee for enrolled bills, and that Mr. Wright be the committee on the part of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the concurrence to the House of Representatives.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1801.

The Honorable Jonathan Mason, from the state of Massachusetts, and the Honorable James Sheafe, from the state of New Hampshire, severally attended.

The President laid before the Senate a letter from Samuel Meredith, Treasurer, together with his general, navy, and war accounts, ending 31st December, 1800, 31st March, 30th June, and 30th September, 1801; which were read.

Ordered, That they lie on file.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1801.

The Honorable James Hillhouse, from the state of Connecticut, and the Honorable Dwight Foster, from the state of Massachusetts, severally attended.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have elected the Reverend William Parkinson a chaplain to Congress, on their part. And he withdrew.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1801.

The Senate assembled; and,

On motion,

Adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1801.

The President laid before the Senate a letter from the Secretary for the Department of State, with an annual return ending the 9th instant, containing an abstract of all the returns made by the collectors of the customs for the different ports, pursuant to the "Act for the relief and protection of American seamen," together with abstracts from the communications received from the agents employed in foreign countries for the relief of American seamen; which were read.

Ordered, That they be printed for the use of the Senate.

A motion was made by Mr. Jackson, seconded by Mr. Nicholas, that it be

RESOLVED, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, That, as a testimony of the high sense they entertain of the nautical skill and gallant conduct of Lieutenant Andrew Sterret, commander of the United States' schooner Enterprize, manifested in an engagement with, and in the capture of, a Tripolitan corsair of superior force, in the Mediterranean sea, fitted out by the Bey of that Regency to harass the trade, capture the vessels, and enslave the citizens of these states: The President of the United States be requested to present Lieutenant Sterret with a sword, with such suitable devices thereon as he shall deem proper, and emblematic of that heroic action; and the mercy extended to a barbarous enemy, who three times struck his colors, and twice recommenced hostilities:—an act of humanity, however unmerited, highly honorable to the American flag and nation: and that the President of the United States be also requested to present Lieutenant Lane of the marines, who was with a detachment of that corps, serving on board the Enterprize in that engagement, and contributed, by his and his detachment's gallant conduct, to the success of the day, with a medal, with such suitable devices as the President may deem fit.

Be it further resolved, In consideration of the intrepid behaviour of the crew of the Enterprize, under the orders of their gallant commander, and their receiving no prize money, the corsair being dismantled and released after her capture, that one month's pay, over and above the usual allowance, be paid to all the other officers, sailors, and marines, who were actually on board and engaged in that action; for the expenditure of which charge Congress will make the necessary appropriation.

And it was agreed that this motion lie for consideration:

Mr. Cocke presented the petition of Daniel Fox, a soldier of the militia, under the command of general Sevier, in the year 1793, rendered incapable of labor by a nervous complaint, contracted in an expedition against the Cherokee Indians; and praying relief. And the petition was read.

On motion,

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Cocke, Ellery, and Nicholas, to consider and report thereon.

On motion, it was agreed,

That the message of the President of the United States, of the 8th instant, be made the order of the day for to-morrow, to be considered as in a committee of the whole.

The President laid before the Senate a letter from Simon Willard to the Secretary of the Senate, on the subject of compensation for an eight day clock, purchased by order of the 25th of February last, for the use of the Senate chamber; which was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Jackson, J. Mason, and T. Foster, to consider and report thereon.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1801.

The President laid before the Senate the report of the commissioners of the Sinking Fund; which was read.

Ordered, That it be printed for the use of the Senate.

On motion,

It was agreed, that the order of the day, on the message of the President of the United States of the 8th instant, be postponed until to-morrow.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1801.

Mr. Tracy, from the joint committee appointed the 7th instant, on a representation respecting the books purchased in pursuance of a resolution of 24th April, 1800, made report; which was read.

Ordered, That it lie for consideration.

Mr. Cocke, from the committee appointed on the 16th instant, to consider the petition of Daniel Fox, made report; which was read.

On motion,

Ordered, That it be recommitted further to consider and report thereon.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1801.

The Honorable Gouverneur Morris, from the state of New York, attended.

The Honorable Thomas Sumpter, appointed a Senator by the legislature of the state of South Carolina, in the place of their late Senator, Charles Pinckney, resigned, produced his credentials, which were read, and he took his seat in the Senate.

The President administered the oath to Mr. Sumpter, as the law prescribes.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1801.

The credentials of the Honorable George Logan, appointed a Senator by the legislature of the state of Pennsylvania, were presented and read; and the affirmation prescribed by law was administered by the President.

The President laid before the Senate a report from the Secretary for the Department of Treasury, in obedience to the directions of the act supplementary to the act entitled "An act to establish the Treasury Department;" which was read.

Ordered, That it be printed for the use of the Senate.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a resolution that the Secretary of State be directed to cause to be furnished to each member of the two Houses a copy of the laws of the Sixth Congress; in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate: And he withdrew.

The Senate took into consideration the report of the joint committee, made on the 18th instant, respecting the books purchased in pursuance of a resolution of Congress of the 24th April, 1800; which report was adopted as amended; and sundry resolutions consequent thereon agreed to.

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives in these resolutions.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1801.

The Honorable David Stone, from the state of North Carolina, attended.

The resolution sent yesterday, from the House of Representatives, authorizing the Secretary of State to supply the members of Congress with the fifth volume of the laws, was considered, and postponed for further consideration.

Mr. Anderson gave notice that he should, to-morrow, ask leave to bring in a bill for the discharge of Laurence Erb from his confinement.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1801.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill extending the privilege of franking letters to the delegate from the Mississippi territory, and making provision for his compensation, in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate. And he withdrew.

The bill was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Agreeably to notice, yesterday given, Mr. Anderson obtained leave to bring in a bill authorizing the discharge of Laurence Erb from his confinement; which was read and passed to the second reading.

Mr. Cocke, from the committee to whom was recommitted, on the 18th instant, the petition of Daniel Fox, made a further report; which was read and ordered to lie for consideration.

The following written messages were received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate,

and of the House of Representatives:

I now enclose sundry documents supplementary to those communicated to you with my message at the commencement of the session. Two others, of considerable importance, the one relating to our transactions with the Barbary powers, the other presenting a view of the offices of the government, shall be communicated as soon as they can be completed.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

December 22, 1801.

*Gentlemen of the Senate, and
of the House of Representatives:*

Another return of the census of the state of Maryland is just received from the marshal of that state, which he desires may be substituted as more correct than the one first returned by him and communicated by me to Congress. This new return, with his letter, is now laid before you.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

December 23, 1801.

The messages and papers therein referred to were read, and severally ordered to lie for consideration.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1801.

The bill authorizing the discharge of Laurence Erb from his confinement was read the second time and committed to Messrs. Anderson, Tracy, and Bradley, to consider and report thereon.

The President laid before the Senate a report of the Postmaster General, in obedience to the "Act to establish the post office;" which was read, and ordered to lie for consideration.

On motion,

Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, JANUARY 11, 1802.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate,

and of the House of Representatives:

I now communicate to you a memorial of the Commissioners of the city of Washington, together with a letter of later date, which, with their memorial of January 28, 1801, will possess the legislature fully of the state of the public interests and of those of the city of Washington confided to them. The moneys now due, and soon to become due, to the state of Maryland, on the loan guarantied by the United States, call for an early attention. The lots in the city which are chargeable with the payment of these moneys are deemed not only equal to the indemnification of the public, but to insure a considerable surplus to the city, to be employed for its improvement; provided they are offered for sale only in sufficient numbers to meet the existing demand. But the act of 1796 requires that they shall be positively sold in such numbers as shall be necessary for the punctual payment of the loans. Nine thousand dollars of interest are lately become due; three thousand dollars quarter yearly will continue to become due; and fifty thousand dollars, an additional loan, are reimbursable on the first day of November next. These sums would require sales so far beyond the actual demand of the market, that it is apprehended that the whole property may be thereby sacrificed, the public security destroyed, and the residuary interest of the city entirely lost. Under these circumstances I have thought it my duty, before I proceed to direct a rigorous execution of the law, to submit the subject to the consideration of the legislature. Whether the public interest will be better secured in the end, and that of the city saved, by offering sales commensurate only to the demand at market, and advancing from the treasury, in the first instance, what these may prove deficient, to be replaced by subsequent sales, rests for the determination of the legislature. If indulgence for the funds can be admitted, they will probably form a resource of great and permanent value; and their embarrassments have been produced only by overstrained exertions to provide accommodations for the government of the union.

TH. JEFFERSON.

January 11, 1802.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they be referred to Messrs. Tracy, Wright, and Howard, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Anderson, Ellery, and Logan, to consider and report thereon.

The Senate resumed the second reading of the bill for the protection of the commerce and seamen of the United States in the Mediterranean and adjoining seas, together with the motion made yesterday for expunging the third and fourth sections; and

On motion,

Ordered, That the bill be committed to Messrs. Baldwin, Morris, and Sheafe, further to consider and report thereon.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The President of the United States did this day approve and sign the act concerning the library for the use of both Houses of Congress. And he withdrew.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate,

and of the House of Representatives:

I lay before you the accounts of our Indian trading houses, as rendered up to the 1st day of January, 1801, with a report of the Secretary of War thereon, explaining the effects and the situation of that commerce, and the reasons in favor of its further extension. But it is believed that the act authorizing this trade expired so long ago as the 3d of March, 1799. Its revival, therefore, as well as its extension, is submitted to the consideration of the legislature.

The act regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes will also expire on the third day of March next. While on the subject of its continuance, it will be worthy the consideration of the legislature, whether the provisions of the law inflicting on Indians in certain cases the punishment of death by hanging, might not permit its commutation into death by military execution; the form of the punishment in the former way being peculiarly repugnant to their ideas, and increasing the obstacles to the surrender of the criminal.

These people are becoming very sensible of the baneful effects produced on their morals, their health, and existence, by the abuse of ardent spirits, and some of them earnestly desire a prohibition of that article from being carried among them. The legislature will consider whether the effectuating that desire would not be in the spirit of benevolence and liberality which they have hitherto practised towards these our neighbors, and which has had so happy an effect towards conciliating their friendship. It has been found too in experience, that the same abuse gives frequent rise to incidents tending much to commit our peace with the Indians.

It is now become necessary to run and mark the boundaries between them and us in various parts. The law last mentioned has authorized this to be done, but no existing appropriation meets the expense.

Certain papers explanatory of the grounds of this communication are herewith enclosed.

TH. JEFFERSON.

January 27, 1802.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

Mr. Jackson, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 17th of December last, the letter of Samuel Willard to the Secretary of the Senate, relative to a clock executed by the said Willard for the use of the Senate, together with his account therefor, made report, which was read, and ordered to lie for consideration.

The Vice President laid before the Senate the memorial of Narsworthy Hunter, stating that he is appointed a Representative in Congress of the Mississippi territory, and the inconveniences to which he is subjected from the delay of the bill extending the privilege of franking letters to the delegate from the Mississippi territory, and making provision for his compensation.

Whereupon,

The bill was read the second time and referred to Messrs. Jackson, Tracy, and Baldwin, to consider and report thereon.

On motion,

Ordered, That the following resolution be referred to the same committee.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to bring in a bill providing for the payment and extending the privilege of franking to any person who may attend as a member of the House of Representatives from any district under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion made yesterday:

That ——— be, and they are hereby, appointed a committee to inquire whether any, and, if any, what, regulations are proper to be adopted respecting public officers and agents who shall squander public money officially entrusted to them, with leave to report by bill, bills, or otherwise.

And the motion was adopted; and

Ordered, That Messrs. Tracy, Nicholas, and Ogden, be that committee.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1802.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed the bill authorizing the discharge of Laurence Erb from his confinement. They have considered the resolutions of the Senate in respect to lieutenant Sterret, the officers and crew of the United States' schooner Enterprize, and do not concur therein. They have passed two resolutions expressing the sense of Congress on the gallant conduct of lieutenant Sterret, the officers and crew of the United States' schooner Enterprize, in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate. And he withdrew.

The resolutions were read.

Ordered, That they pass to the second reading.

Mr. Baldwin, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 28th instant, the bill for the protection of the commerce and seamen of the United States in the Mediterranean and adjoining seas, reported the bill without further amendment; and the report was adopted.

Ordered, That this bill pass to the third reading as amended.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1802.

Mr. Wright, from the committee, reported that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill, entitled "An act authorizing the discharge of Laurence Erb from his confinement."

The resolutions expressing the sense of Congress on the gallant conduct of lieutenant Sterret, the officers and crew of the United States' schooner Enterprize, were read the second time, and, by unanimous consent, had a third reading.

Resolved, That the Senate do concur therein.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives of the concurrence.

The bill, entitled "An act for the protection of the commerce and seamen of the United States in the Mediterranean and adjoining seas," was read the third time.

On motion,

To add to the preamble these words: "whereby a state of war now exists with the said Regency:"

It passed in the negative.

Resolved, That this bill pass as amended.

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill authorizing the payment of two thousand eight hundred dollars to Philip Sloan, in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate: And he withdrew.

The bill was read the first time, and, by unanimous consent, had a second reading.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Chipman, Dwight Foster, and Wright, to consider and report thereon.

Mr. Breckinridge gave notice that he should, to-morrow, move for the discharge of the committee, appointed the 27th of January last, to whom was referred the bill to repeal certain acts respecting the organization of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes, with instructions to consider and report the alterations which may be proper in the judiciary system of the United States.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1802.

Mr. Wright, from the committee, reported that they had examined, and found duly enrolled, the resolutions expressing the sense of Congress on the gallant conduct of lieutenant Sterret, the officers, and crew, of the United States schooner Enterprize.

Mr. Ross presented the memorial of Jared Ingersoll and others, counsellors, practising in the courts of Pennsylvania, and in the circuit court of the United States, for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, submitting their unanimous opinion, deliberately and anxiously formed, that the circuit court, on the principles of its present organization, is an important medium for the administration of justice, and that the abolition of the court will probably be attended with great public inconvenience; and the memorial was read.

Ordered, That it lie for consideration.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr President: The House of Representatives have passed a bill to authorize the settlement of the account of Samuel Dexter, for his expense in defending against the suit of Joseph Hodgson, in which they desire the concurrence of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, and sundry enrolled resolutions, I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of the Vice President. And he withdrew.

The bill first mentioned in the message was read.

Ordered, That it pass to the second reading.

The Vice President signed the enrolled bill and resolutions last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee, to be laid before the President of the United States.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

*Gentlemen of the Senate, and
of the House of Representatives:*

I now lay before you,

1. A return of ordnance, arms, and military stores, the property of the United States.
2. Returns of muskets and bayonets fabricated at the armories of the United States, at Springfield and Harper's Ferry, and of the expenditures at those places: and,
3. An estimate of expenditures which may be necessary for fortifications and barracks for the present year.

Besides the permanent magazines established at Springfield, West Point, and Harper's Ferry, it is thought one should be established in some point convenient for the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. Such a point will probably be found near the border of the Carolinas, and some small provision by the legislature, preparatory to the establishment, will be necessary for the present year.

We find the United States in possession of certain iron mines and works, in the county of Berkley, and state of Virginia, purchased, as is presumed, on the idea of establishing works for the fabrication of cannon and other military articles by the public. Whether this method of supplying what may be wanted will be most advisable, or that of purchasing at market, where competition brings every thing to its proper level of price and quality, is for the legislature to decide: and, if the latter alternative be preferred, it will rest for their further consideration in what way the subjects of this purchase may be best employed or disposed of. The Attorney General's opinion on the subject of the title accompanies this.

There are, in various parts of the United States, small parcels of land which have been purchased at different times for cantonments and other military purposes. Several of them are in situations not likely to be accommodated to future purposes. The loss of the records prevents a detailed statement of these until they can be supplied by inquiry. In the mean time, one of them, containing eighty-eight acres, in the county of Essex, in New Jersey, purchased in 1799, and sold the following year to Cornelius Vermule and Andrew Codmas, though its price has been received, cannot be conveyed without authority from the legislature.

I enclose herewith a letter from the Secretary of War, on the subject of the islands in the lakes and rivers of our northern boundary, and of certain lands in the neighborhood of some of our military posts, on which it may be expedient for the legislature to make some provisions.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 2, 1802.

The message was read.

Ordered, That the message and papers therein referred to lie for consideration.

Mr. Breckinridge introduced the motion, of which he gave notice yesterday, that the committee appointed the 27th of January last, to whom was referred the bill to repeal certain acts respecting the organization of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes, with instructions to consider and report the alterations which may be proper in the judiciary system of the United States, be discharged:

Agreeably to the order of the day, the Senate took into consideration the amendments reported by the committee, on the 22d of January last, to the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States; and, after progress,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock, to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1802.

The messages communicated yesterday from the President of the United States were read, as follows:

*Gentlemen of the Senate and
of the House of Representatives:*

I now transmit a statement of the expenses incurred by the United States in their transactions with the Barbary powers, and a roll of the persons having office or employment under the United States, as was proposed in my messages of December the 7th and 22d. Neither is as perfect as could have been wished; and the latter not so much so as further time and inquiry may enable us to make it.

The great volume of these communications, and the delay it would produce to make out a second copy, will, I trust, be deemed a sufficient reason for sending one of them to the one house, and the other to the other, with a request that they may be interchanged for mutual information, rather than to subject both to further delay.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 16, 1802.

*Gentlemen of the Senate
and of the House of Representatives:*

I lay before both Houses of Congress for their information the report from the Director of the Mint now enclosed.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 17, 1802.

The papers referred to in the messages were read.

Ordered, That they severally lie for consideration.

Mr. Wright, from the committee, reported that they had examined, and found duly enrolled, the bill, entitled "An act making certain partial appropriations for the year one thousand eight hundred and two;" also, that, on the 17th instant, the committee laid before the President of the United States the enrolled bill, entitled "An act extending the privilege of franking and receiving letters free of postage to any person admitted, or to be admitted, to take a seat in Congress as a delegate, and providing compensation for such delegate."

Mr. Ogden, from the committee appointed on the 15th instant, reported a bill to authorize the President of the United States to convey certain parcels of land therein mentioned, and the bill was read.

Ordered, That this bill pass to the second reading.

On motion,

Ordered, That Mr. S. T. Mason be on the committee to consider the bill to repeal in part the act, entitled "An act regulating foreign coins, and for other purposes," in place of Mr. Logan, absent with leave.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the amendments reported by the committee, on the 22d of January last, to the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States.

On motion,

Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed until to-morrow. The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1802.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of the Vice President. The President of the United States did, on the 18th instant, approve and sign "An act extending the privilege of franking and receiving letters free of postage to any person admitted, or to be admitted, to take a seat in Congress as a delegate, and providing compensation for such delegate." And he withdrew.

The Vice President signed the enrolled bill last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee, to be laid before the President of the United States.

The bill to authorize the President of the United States to convey certain parcels of land therein mentioned, was read the second time; and it was agreed that it should lie for consideration.

On motion,

Ordered, That the consideration of the amendments reported by the committee, on the 22d of January last, to the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States, be postponed until Monday next.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

*Gentlemen of the Senate
and of the House of Representatives:*

In a message of the 2d instant, I enclosed a letter from the Secretary of War on the subject of certain lands in the neighborhood of our military posts, on which it might be expedient for the legislature to make some provisions. A letter recently received from the Governor of Indiana presents some further views of the extent to which such provision may be needed. I therefore now transmit it for the information of Congress.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 18, 1802.

The message and letter therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That the letter be referred to Mr. Tracy and others, the committee appointed on this subject the 15th instant, to consider and report thereon to the Senate.

Mr. Tracy, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 10th instant, the bill to allow a drawback of duties on goods exported to New Orleans; and therein to amend the act to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage, made report; which was read.

Ordered, That this report lie for consideration.

Mr. Bradley communicated sundry resolutions of the legislature of the state of Vermont, which were read, as follows:

STATE OF VERMONT, IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

Resolved, That, in the opinion of the legislature, the following amendments to the constitution of the United States would conduce to the happiness of the citizens thereof, by the establishment of an uniform mode for the choice of electors of President and Vice President of the United States and of Representatives to Congress.

1st. That after the third day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and one, the choice of electors of President and Vice President shall be made by the legislature of each state, dividing the state into a number of districts equal to the number of electors to be chosen in such state, and by the persons in each of those districts who shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the legislature of such state choosing one elector in the manner which the legislature thereof shall prescribe, which district, when so divided, shall remain unalterable until a new census of the United States shall be obtained.

2d. That the elections of Representatives to serve after the third day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and three, shall be by dividing each state, by the legislature thereof, into a number of districts, equal to the number of Representatives to which such state shall be entitled, and by the people within each of those districts who shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the legislature of such state choosing one Representative in the manner which the legislature thereof shall prescribe, which district, when so divided, shall remain unalterable until a new census of the United States shall be obtained.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1802.

The Senate assembled; and,

On motion,

Adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1802.

The Honorable De Witt Clinton, appointed a Senator by the legislature of the state of New York, in the place of John Armstrong, esquire, their late Senator, who has resigned, produced his credentials, which were read, and he took his seat in the Senate.

The Vice President administered the oath to Mr. Clinton as the law prescribes.

On motion,

Ordered, That the consideration of the amendments reported by the committee on the 22d of January last, to the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States, be further postponed until to-morrow.

On motion,

Ordered, That the consideration of the amendments reported by the committee on the 19th instant to the bill to allow a drawback of duties on goods exported to New Orleans, and therein to amend the act to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage, be postponed until to-morrow.

The Senate resumed the second reading of the bill to authorize the President of the United States to convey certain parcels of land therein mentioned.

On motion,

Ordered, That this bill pass to the third reading.

Mr. Anderson, from the committee to whom was referred on the 28th of January last, the bill to repeal in part the act, entitled "An act regulating foreign coins, and for other purposes," reported it without amendment.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1802.

Mr. Wright reported, from the committee, that they did, yesterday, lay before the President of the United States the enrolled bill, entitled "An act making certain partial appropriations for the year one thousand eight hundred and two."

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

*Gentlemen of the Senate and
of the House of Representatives:*

I communicate to both Houses of Congress a report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the subject of our marine hospitals, which appear to require legislative attention.

As connected with the same subject, I also inclose information respecting the situation of our seamen and boatmen frequenting the port of New Orleans, and suffering there from sickness and the want of accommodation. There is good reason to believe their numbers greater than stated in these papers. When we consider how great a proportion of the territory of the United States must communicate with that port singly; and how rapidly that territory is increasing its population and productions, it may, perhaps, be thought reasonable to make hospital provisions there of a different order from those at foreign ports generally.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 24, 1802.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they severally lie for consideration.

Mr. Morris communicated sundry resolutions of the legislature of the state of New York, which were read, as follow:

Resolved, As the sense of the legislature, that the following amendments ought to be incorporated into the constitution of the United States, as a necessary safe-guard against pernicious dissensions in the choice of a President and Vice President, and as the most eligible mode of obtaining a full and fair expression of the public will in such election:

1. That the state legislature shall, from time to time, divide each state into districts, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives from such state in the Congress of the United States; and shall direct the mode of choosing an elector of President and Vice President, in each of the said districts, who shall be chosen by citizens having the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature; and that the districts, so to be constituted, shall consist, as nearly as may be, of contiguous territory, and of equal proportion of population, except where there may be any detached portion of territory, not of itself sufficient to form a district, which then shall be annexed to some other portion nearest thereto; which districts, when so divided, shall remain unalterable until a new census of the United States shall be taken.

2. That in all future elections of President and Vice President, the persons voted for shall be particularly designated, by declaring which is voted for as President, and which as Vice President.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the amendments reported by the committee, on the 22d of January last, to the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States, which were in part adopted; and, after progress,

Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The President of the United States did, on the 23d instant, approve and sign "An act making certain partial appropriations for the year one thousand eight hundred and two." And he withdrew,

On request,

Mr. Stone and Mr. Sheafe severally obtained leave of absence, after Monday next, for five weeks.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1802.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the committee on the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States; which were in part adopted; and having agreed further to amend the bill,

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1802.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the committee on the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States; and,

On motion,

Ordered, That the bill be recommitted to Messrs. Bradley, Nicholas, and Jackson, further to consider and report thereon to the Senate.

The following written messages were received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

*Gentlemen of the Senate and
of the House of Representatives:*

No occasion having arisen since the last account rendered by my predecessor of making use of any part of the moneys heretofore granted to defray the contingent charges of the government, I now transmit to Congress an official statement thereof to the 31st day of December last, when the whole unexpended balance, amounting to twenty thousand nine hundred and eleven dollars and eighty cents, was carried to the credit of the surplus fund, as provided by law; and this account consequently becomes finally closed.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 25, 1802.

*Gentlemen of the Senate and
of the House of Representatives:*

Some statements have been lately received of the causes decided or depending in the courts of the Union in certain states, supplementary or corrective of those from which was formed the general statement accompanying my message at the opening of the session. I therefore communicate them to Congress, with a report of the Secretary of State, noting their effect on the former statement, and correcting certain errors in it which arose partly from inexactitude in some of the returns, and partly in analysing, adding, and transcribing them, while hurried in preparing the other voluminous papers accompanying that message.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 26, 1802.

The messages and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they severally lie for consideration.

Mr. Wright, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 12th instant, the bill to authorize the collection of fees due to the officers of the respective courts in the state of Maryland, from persons residing within the territory of Columbia, by the marshal of the said district, reported amendments; which were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1802.

Mr. Bradley, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 15th of February last, the bill to amend an act, entitled "An act to lay and collect a direct tax within the United States," reported amendments; which were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

The bill to authorize the President of the United States to convey certain parcels of land therein mentioned, was read the third time, and amended.

Resolved, That this bill do pass, that it be engrossed, and that the title thereof be "An act to authorize the President of the United States to convey certain parcels of land therein mentioned."

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives in this bill.

The Senate resumed the second reading of the bill to repeal in part the act, entitled "An act regulating foreign coins, and for other purposes."

Ordered, That this bill pass to the third reading.

The Senate took into consideration the amendments reported by the committee, on the 26th of February last, to the bill to authorize the collection of fees due to the officers of the respective courts in the state of Maryland, from persons residing within the territory of Columbia, by the marshal of the said district, and having in part agreed thereto,

Ordered, That the further consideration of this bill be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. Clinton presented the petition of Ebenezer Stevens, merchant, of the city of New York, stating that Thomas Watson, late master of the sloop Harriot, which was shipwrecked in the West Indies, soon afterwards purchased, with the funds of the petitioner, a certain American built ship called the Bellona; prior to which, and unknown to the purchaser, the said ship had been employed in illicit commerce, and, in consequence whereof, on her arrival at New York, she was seized by the revenue officers of that district, and there condemned; and that the petitioner can only obtain that relief which he prays, by a special act of the legislature; and the petition was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Clinton, Brown, and Hillhouse, to consider and report thereon to the Senate.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, MARCH 2, 1802.

The Vice President laid before the Senate a report of the Secretary for the Department of Treasury, with a statement of the emoluments of the officers employed in the collection of the customs for the year 1801; also, a statement of the sums paid into the Treasury, by the collectors of each port, during the same year; which were read.

Ordered, That they severally lie on file.

The Senate resumed the second reading of the bill to authorize the collection of fees due to the officers of the respective courts in the state of Maryland, from persons residing within the territory of Columbia, by the marshal of the said district; and having agreed to a further amendment,

Ordered, That this bill pass to the third reading as amended.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House Representatives:

I transmit, for the information of Congress, letters recently received from our consuls at Gibraltar and Algiers, presenting the latest view of the state of our affairs with the Barbary powers. The sums due to the government of Algiers are now fully paid up; and of the gratuity which had been promised to that of Tunis, and was in a course of preparation, a small portion only remains still to be finished and delivered.

TH. JEFFERSON.

March 1, 1802.

The message and papers referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

The Senate took into consideration the amendment reported by the committee, the 19th of February last, on the bill to allow a drawback of duties on goods exported to New Orleans, and therein to amend the act to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage; and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion,

Ordered, That the further consideration of this bill be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. Bradley, from the committee to whom was recommitted, on the 26th of February last, the bill fixing the military peace establishment of the United States, reported amendments, which were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3, 1802.

On motion,

Ordered, That the message of the President of the United States, of the 1st instant, and the papers therein referred to, be committed to Messrs. Tracy, Dayton, and Clinton, to consider and report thereon to the Senate.

The bill, entitled "An act to authorize the collection of fees due to the officers of the respective courts in the state of Maryland, from persons residing within the territory of Columbia, by the marshal of the said district," was read the third time.

On the question, Shall this bill pass?

It was resolved in the negative.

So the bill was lost.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives that the Senate do not concur in this bill.

The bill, entitled "An act to repeal, in part, the act, entitled 'An act regulating foreign coins, and for other purposes,'" was read the third time; and a motion was made for an amendment; and it was agreed that it should lie for consideration.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate

and of the House of Representatives:

The Secretary of State charged with the civil affairs of the several territories of the United States, has received from the marshal of Columbia a statement of the condition, unavoidably distressing, of the persons committed to his custody on civil or criminal process, and the urgency for some legislative provisions for their relief. There are other important cases wherein the laws of the adjoining states, under which the territory is placed, though adapted to the purposes of those states, are insufficient for those of the territory, from the dissimilar or defective organization of its authorities. The letter and statement of the marshal, and the disquieting state of the territory, generally, are now submitted to the wisdom and consideration of the legislature.

TH. JEFFERSON.

March 29, 1802.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they be committed to Messrs. Morris, S. T. Mason, and Howard, to consider and report thereon.

The bill to enable the people of the eastern division of the territory northwest of the river Ohio to form a constitution and state government was postponed until to-morrow.

On motion,

Resolved, That the motion made on the 16th instant for an amendment to the constitution of the United States respecting the choice of electors for President and Vice President be postponed until the next session of Congress.

After the consideration of the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1802.

Mr. Ellery, from the committee, reported that they had this day examined and found duly enrolled the bill to regulate and fix the compensations of the officers of the Senate and House of Representatives; also, the bill for the relief of Theodosius Fowler.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate and

of the House of Representatives:

The commissioners who were appointed to carry into execution the sixth article of the treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation, between the United States and Great Britain, having differed in their construction of that article, and separated in consequence of that difference, the President of the United States took immediate measures for obtaining conventional explanations of that article, for the government of the commissioners. Finding, however, great difficulties opposed to a settlement in that way, he authorized our minister at the court of London to meet a proposition that the United States, by the payment of a fixed sum, should discharge themselves from their responsibility for such debts as cannot be recovered from the individual debtors. A convention has accordingly been signed, fixing the sum to be paid at 600,000 pounds sterling, in three equal and annual instalments; which has been ratified by me, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

I now transmit copies thereof to both Houses of Congress, trusting that, in the free exercise of the authority which the constitution has given them on the subject of public expenditures, they will deem it for the public interest to appropriate the sums necessary for carrying this convention into execution.

TH. JEFFERSON.

April 27, 1802.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Nicholas, Dayton, and Logan, to report thereon by bill or otherwise.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Beckley, their Clerk:

Ordered, That these petitions be referred to the committee who have under consideration the bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the inhabitants of the city of Washington."

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the committee on the petition of John Cleves Symmes, which was adopted, as follows:

1. That, in the year 1788, the petitioner entered into a contract with the United States, upon a fair consideration, for the purchase of one million of acres of land, in the northwestern territory

2. That, in consequence of such contract, the petitioner made a settlement upon the tract, and sold many parcels thereof to adventurers, who went, together with him, into that new country, and located themselves there.

3. That, in the year 1794, the petitioner obtained a patent, under the authority of a law which enabled the President of the United States to make the same, for such proportion of the one million of acres, which had at that time been paid for, pursuant to the said contract, amounting to 311,682 acres of the said million of acres of land.

4. That the petitioner, after the said in part fulfilment of the contract on the side of both the parties to the same, proceeded to make sales (as he before had done in respect to the lands for which he had lately received the patent, as above mentioned) in the residue of the one million of acres, expecting to make the title when he should receive his patent therefor, agreeably to his contract, as he had before practised.

5. That no authority has been given by law, or otherwise, that can be found by your committee, whereby the said contract can be carried into execution on behalf of the United States, upon the payment of the sums further stipulated to be paid by the petitioner, agreeably to his contract, whereby he is entitled to a patent, upon payment of such stipulated sums; which payments the petitioner avers he always has been, and still is, ready to pay and perform, as thereunto required by his contract.

6. That your committee, from the papers and documents laid before them by the petitioner, or from the statement which he has made, do not perceive that the petitioner has done any one act, or omitted to do any act, whereby he has forfeited any right to the full benefit of his contract, before stated.

7. That no authority exists, by law, enabling any person to carry into execution the said contract on behalf of the United States; but, on the contrary, that two laws have been passed predicated upon the idea that the obligations of the United States, under the said contract, have ceased and determined: under the operation of which laws the said petitioner states, and your committee believe, that the said petitioner is suffering very great hardships, tending to the utter destruction and total waste of his whole property.

8. Your committee, the premises considered, beg leave to recommend the adoption of the resolution accompanying this report:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to direct the attorney general to examine into the contract entered into between the United States and John Cleves Symmes, Esq. and others, bearing date on the 15th of October, 1788, and all the contracts and laws relative thereto; and all the transactions which may legally or equitably affect the same, as far as they may come to his knowledge; and to make a report of the same to the Senate, at their next session, together with his opinion whether the said John Cleves Symmes has any claims, and what, upon the United States, in virtue of the said contract, or any other contract, or law predicated upon the same: and that the further consideration of the petition of said John Cleves Symmes, Esq. of and concerning the premises, be postponed to the first day of the next session of Congress.

And the report was adopted.

Ordered, That the Secretary lay this resolution before the President of the United States.
